

CABIN PASSENGERS CONSUME LINER'S SUPPLY OF WINE

Complain of Illness and Get
"Medicine" Carried by German Orders.

Two sister ships of the United States Steamship Lines, the President Harding and the President Arthur, came up the Bay almost side by side today and docked within half an hour of each other. The President Arthur left Bremen on Nov. 7, and the President Harding on Nov. 8.

The wife of Capt. Kreibohm of the President Arthur was a passenger on the President Harding. Capt. P. C. Gering of the latter vessel accompanied her on the trip. She was, with the result that the President's tarding caught up with the President Arthur two days ago and Capt. Kreibohm and his wife were able to converse by radio thereafter.

In accordance with the German maritime laws, which the Bremen port authorities insisted upon enforcing, both vessels took on at Bremen a sufficient amount of wine to serve for medicinal purposes on the voyage.

Dr. W. S. Irwin of the President Harding took aboard nine bottles of port wine and fifteen bottles of claret. A number of the eighty-nine first cabin passengers, of whom seventy-seven were Americans, complained of illness on the trip and Dr. Irwin had none of his medicine left when the President Harding docked.

There was very little complaint about the dryness of the President Harding. Most of the passengers said it made little difference to them whether they travelled on a wet ship or a dry ship.

Elwood Haynes of Indiana, who made the first automobile, returned from a visit to the Continent. He said he does not feel as pessimistic as many about the future of Europe.

In his judgment the passage of the Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill was an economic mistake. It has aroused great resentment in Europe because it closes in many lines a market through which the debtor nations expected to pay some of their obligations.

In one of the compartments below of the President Harding were 5,000 Hartz Mountain canaries.

WITHDRAWS MOTION TO OUST EXECUTOR

Anna Held's Daughter Takes New Move Involving Estate.

Liane Carrere of No. 149 West 55th Street, daughter of the late Anna Held, today applied in Surrogate's Court to strike from the calendar her application for the removal of Charles F. Hanlon of San Francisco as executor of her mother's estate.

Surrogate Cohalan granted her motion.

Miss Carrere had claimed the executor failed to comply with a court order requiring him to turn over to her, as the residuary legatee under her mother's will, jewelry valued at more than $100,000 and stocks and bonds worth $26,000.

Miss Carrere's motion today contained a proviso reserving the right to restore the case to the calendar again if she desires.

A KIND WORD FOR TAXES.
(From the Cincinnati Enquirer.)

The one grand thing about paying taxes is that it reminds us that there is such a thing as Government and we are living under it, so to speak.

French Countess Has Boy Cripple Arrested for Robbing Apartment

Police Find War Savings Stamps in Bible After Fourth Burglary in Brooklyn.

After confessing, police say, to theft of several articles from the apartment of Miss Josette Zembe, No. 216 Spencer Street, Brooklyn, Savirto Scaccio, sixteen, a cripple living in the basement at the same address, was today held for the Grand Jury without bail.

William Fall, a motion picture operator, No. 1700 42d Street, Brooklyn, his alleged accomplice, was held in $2,500 bail for examination Nov. 20, by Magistrate Liota in Gates Avenue Court.

Miss Zembe is a designer for the Kayser Silk Company and teaches French. She says she is a French Countess. Four times, she says, her apartment has been burglarized, the last time on Nov. 2. She reported to the police the theft of a watch, War Savings Stamps and other articles.

Detectives arrested the crippled boy yesterday and say he confessed to entering the apartment with a key and taking a "pal" with him. The watch, it is alleged, was found in the cellar of the building and the savings stamps in Scaccio's Bible.

Miss Zembe and the boy became friendly when she invited him to hear World Series scores on her radio.

YIDDISH TEACHER DEAD IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

Certificate Showed Wife's Death Occurred From Similar Cause.

Hayman Yaffe, fifty-six years old, a widely known Yiddish teacher and author, was found dead today in a furnished room he occupied at No. 424 East 143d Street. All the gas jets were turned on and all the crevices of the doors and windows were stuffed with paper.

Yaffe had been in poor health. A certificate found in his room showed that his wife, Mary, aged fifty-five years, died of gas poisoning at No. 113 Poplar Street, Boston, on March 21, 1916.

Surrogate Cohalan today. Sands declares Miss Hoge's application was unnecessary, as she is the woman who used undue influence. He declares that when his uncle's wife died Miss Hoge became friendly with Sands. Prior to this, young Sands averred, his uncle had made him his sole heir, but in a later will disinherited him.

HUSBAND FILES SUIT
FOR $1,471,869 ESTATE

$45,000 Tapestries Left by Mrs. Breese-Norris to Metropolitan Museum.

Legacies of two paintings worth $1,471,869.

600 and three tapestries valued at $45,000 were left to the Metropolitan Museum of Art under the will of Elsie L. Breese-Norris. Application for judicial settlement of her estate was made in Surrogate's Court today by her husband, Adam Gordon Norris.

According to the accounting, the estate is valued at $1,471,869. A trust fund of $200,000 was created for the husband and he was given the residence and its contents at Tuxedo, N. Y., as well as the residue of the estate, including her valuable collection of ancient musical instruments.

100 STRIKING FISHMEN
LOSE FIGHT FOR RAISE

Some "Katie and Lee Box" Men Find Jobs Filled.

One hundred workers in Fulton Fish Market who went on strike several days ago, demanding more money, returned to their jobs this morning without winning their demand. That is, most of them came back, but a few of them were told their places were filled.

The men are members of the United Seafood Workers, and are known as "knife and lobster men." They are employed by six different concerns and prepare most of the fish for hotel trade.
